CONFIDENTIALITY OF INFORMATION

The National Institute of Statistics and Census (INEC, by its acronym in Spanish), is the main technical institution of national statistics and coordinator of the National Statistical System (SEN, by its acronym in Spanish). This function was assigned INEC by the Law of the National Statistics System (N° 7839 dated November 4, 1998), which was enacted considering, among other things, the importance of relying on timely and current statistical data as the basis for creating economic and social policies.

This law also establishes the confidentiality of data supplied:

Article 4: “[...] The data obtained under this law shall be strictly confidential [...] Data from private individuals or legal entities [...] may not be published by themselves, but as part of global statistics, which will correspond to three or more natural or legal persons, nor may be provided for tax purposes or other purposes.”

Article 5: The SEN may request information concerning the business of all natural and legal persons residing in Costa Rica...”
